

BRING WHO YOU ARE

MUSIC WORKSHOP JUNE 5th!

The name "Bill Wellington" was well known to the folk musicians and storytellers we met at the Association of Performing Arts Professionals conference in New York City this past January. "Bill has a music and storytelling practice that is unique to him," commented Adam Booth, a fellow performer.

Arcadia Project is pleased to present Bill Wellington's Old Time Workshop next Wednesday, 2 - 2:45 p.m. where Bill will play banjo, fiddle, and guitar using traditional techniques he learned from legendary musicians back in the day, in West Virginia. Winner of the West Virginia Old Time Banjo Championship, Bill currently plays in the bands Stay All Night, and The Bouncers. Join us for this special event at the Augusta County Library, 1759 Jefferson Highway, free to all. Learn more.

WELCOME A NEW BOARD MEMBER!

We are pleased to welcome Elaine Echols as the newest member of the Arcadia Project Board of Directors. Elaine worked as a Planner in local government for more than thirty years, before retiring from her position as Chief of Planning for Albemarle County. In recognition of her excellence in professional practice, teaching and mentoring, research, community service, and leadership she was inducted into the elite College of Fellows of the American Institute of Certified Planners. We are honored to draw upon her expertise in working with local governments. She is also a music lover and practitioner, singing in her church choir, and serving on the board of the Valley Music Academy.

Have questions? Either respond to this email or write us at info@thearcadiaproject.org

ARCADIA PROJECT, P.O. Box 571, Staunton, VA 24402, 540.885.3211
info@thearcadiaproject.org
Unsubscribe Manage preferences

Send free email today
HubSpot